Additional Information Concerning CACARANA and FUELLBORN

RFP: ECMA-12955

1. On 30 March 1954 CARBOHYDRATE reported that postal communication had been established with CACARANA and FUELLBORN. Both men have addressed brief notes to their relatives, consisting of some 20 lines in each letter, indicating that they are now imprisoned in Brandenburg/Oeselde. Whether they are going to remain here or be transferred to Sautzen or Torgau is not yet clear.

2. Each letter contained a small card stating that approximately once a month a small package containing specified amounts of certain DDA products might be sent to the prisoner. CARBOHYDRATE's wife said she had not been able to note the address to which the packages might be sent, but that she would attempt to ascertain it at a later date. Both letters were mailed from Brandenburg, but it is not known whether or not they bore a return address.

3. FUELLBORN's letter, which CARBOHYDRATE's spouse actually read, limited itself to announcing that he had received a sentence of 15 years, but that he was otherwise quite well. He apologized to his relatives for any ills his action might bring upon them, and requested that he be given his wife's address so that he might write to her. As a closing note he sent birthday greetings to his young son.

4. CACARANA's letter was mailed to an aunt in Lichtenberg who then delivered it to the former's mother. Although this letter was not seen by CARBONIENATE's wife, she saw CACARANA's mother shortly after it had arrived, and commented that the latter was completely broken up over the contents. Among other partially incoherent remarks made by CACARANA's mother was the accusation leveled against CARBONIENATE that he was the cause of her son's arrest. What apparently completely unnerved the mother was the fact that the letter had not begun with the usual salutation, "Liebe Mutti, wir geht's gut", which he had always used throughout the most trying days of the war, so she is thoroughly convinced that he is undergoing rigorous disciplinary punishment for his crimes against the state.
